

EXHIBIT 4

to the

PUBLISHER DEFENDANTS' MOTION IN LIMINE
TO PRECLUDE PLAINTIFF FROM CALLING GAWKER'S
GENERAL COUNSEL AS A TRIAL WITNESS

HOME VIDEO U.S. WORLD POLITICS ENTERTAINMENT TECH HEALTH LIFESTYLE SHOWS MORE

NOW NY PRISON ESCAPE • CONFEDERATE FLAG • HOLY MADISON • COLORADO TENNIS AGUE • UNITED AIRLINES

SIGN IN Search

Hulk Hogan Taking Gawker Media to Court Over Sex Tape

Jun 19, 2015, 12:16 PM ET

By ABC NEWS via GOOD MORNING AMERICA

25

43

24 Comments

AUTO START: ON OFF

Hulk Hogan has filed a $100 million lawsuit against Gawker Media for publishing his sex tape, and the two sides will face off in court next month.

"We're seeking monetary damages and a permanent injunction against the video," Charles Harder, Hogan's attorney, told ABC News.

In 2012, Gawker published video depicting Hogan having sex with the then-wife of his friend, a disc jockey nicknamed Bubba the Love Sponge.

Hulk Hogan Reveals He Could Be Villain in 'Expendables 4'

Hulk Hogan, John Cena Get 'GMA' Pumped for 'Wrestlemania'

Heather Dietrick, Gawker's president and general counsel, argued that publishing the tape was an issue of newsworthiness. After all, she said, Hogan often spoke of his sex life during interviews.

"Months before Gawker ever published, this was a giant story in the news," she told ABC News.

Legal analyst Dan Abrams said on "Good Morning America" that Gawker has a "very strong argument," though the trick will be getting a Florida jury to look at the matter from a legal standpoint and not to act as media critics.

Still, "this has worked its way up through the federal courts on separate questions and, just about every time, Gawker has ended up winning," he said. "Certainly, in the end, Gawker has won as a legal matter, and I think that as a legal matter they're going to end up winning again."

25

43

24 Comments

PROMOTED STORIES

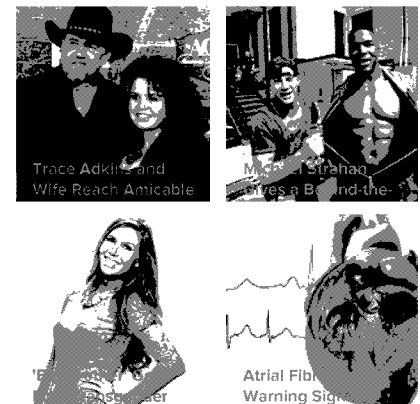

MORE FROM ABC NEWS

HOT RIGHT NOW

- 1 Former White House Chef's Body Found in New Mexico
- 2 How New DNA Matches May Lead to Escaped NY Prisoners
- 3 President Obama Uses N-Word In Discussion on Racism
- 4 United Airlines Flight Finally Arrives in Chicago, 30 Hours...
- 5 Woman's 'Long Road to Recovery' From Flesh-Eating Bacteria

YOU MIGHT ALSO LIKE...

Recommended by