1           But if you want to claim harm to your
2           reputation and say you were just fine and dandy
3           until our Gawker came down the pike, the law
4           provides that the defendant is able to say, Well,
5           really? Did this article harm your reputation?
6           Yes, no, maybe so. Did this article harm your 7           reputation? Did it harm your reputation when you
8           went on Bubba's show and you said this? Did it
9           harm your reputation when you did this and this 10          and this and this? Judge, I have tried these 11          libel cases for years. Juries find that 12          persuasive.

13           MR. HARDER: Your Honor, I think about two 14          years ago we told Your Honor we were not seeking 15          damages for harm to career, harm to reputation, 16          any of that. I think what he's referencing is 17          that we took a standard jury instruction and 18          popped it in. And we can remove the word 19          "reputation" and that's the quick fix to that.

20           MR. SULLIVAN: There you go.

21           THE COURT: Okay. Wonderful.

22           MR. SULLIVAN: Thank you.

23           MR. TURKEL: Judge, where does that leave us
24          on 7 and 8? Do you want us to take your direction
25          and perhaps narrow -- get to you what we think you
